Comments Part October 24, 2014 (Just Dance 2015 Motion Controller)July 27, 2015 (Just Dance Controller) Apple, Android, Windows Phone (only 2016) Ubisoft Paris, Ubisoft Pune Just Dance Controller (formerly known as Just Dance 2015 Controller) is a free app by Ubisoft where players can use a smartphone and play Just Dance 2015 (only on the Xbox One and PlayStation 4), Just Dance 2016, Just Dance 2017, Just Dance 2018, Dance just 2019 (only on the Xbox One and PlayStation 4), Just Dance 2020 for all consoles, and Just Dance 2021 for all consoles. The program was an update to the Just Dance 2015 Motion Controller. How it works This app is only compatible with the Xbox One, PlayStation 4, PC, Wii U, and Nintendo Switch versions of Just Dance 2016, Just Dance 2017, Just Dance 2018, and Just Dance 2019 (the PC and Nintendo Switch versions of the game are compatible with youth for 2017 and beyond). However, on Just Dance 2015 and Just Dance 2019, the program is only invisible with the Xbox One and PlayStation 4 versions of the game. Using the app, the phone can be used as a controller to count the player's moves. The phone will work similarly to that of a Wii/PlayStation Move/Joy-Con remote. The app also allows song selection through the phone. It also makes a sound when the player reaches a star or performs a Gold Move correctly. Trivia This is the third app made by Ubisoft related to Just Dance, after AutoDance and Just Dance Now. As mentioned before, this app is an update for the Just Dance 2015 Motion Controller program, since it also works with Just Dance 2015, but only on PlayStation 4 and Xbox One, just like the Dance 2015 Motion Controller app. The update only adds support for the Wii U, PC, and Nintendo Switch consoles for later Just Dance games. In Just Dance 2016, if the game fails to register moves correctly and counts them as multiple Xs, the game will disconnect the phone in order to refresh it and calibrate the phone for more accurate tracking. On Just Dance 2015, an update is required for the game so that the app can work for the game. The app is mainly used by Xbox One players without a Kinect, PlayStation 4 players without a Move or Camera, and Wii U players without a WiiMote. In an update on the Just Dance 2016 version (Version 2.2.0) of the app, the Ubisoft logo animation movie was added, but it incorrectly had the logo music of Just Dance 2015. It was later fixed in a later update (Version 2.3.2). It was later removed in the 2018 version (Version 4.0.1) due to the new Ubisoft logo revealed in the UbiBlog on May 31st, 2017. This information is required for computer players in Just Dance 2017, as well as Xbox Series X and PlayStation 5 players in Just Dance 2021 and beyond. [1] The game can be played without the app. When that option is selected, players will not be able to log on. However, there is an option to connect the phone to the game. On the coach selection screen, it shows a warning that no phones are connected and scoring is not possible. The starbar is also removed during play. In the Just Dance 2018 version (Version 4.0.1) of the app, the photo stand option was removed. In the Just Dance 2019 version (Version 5.0.0) of the program, compatibility with Just Dance 2015 and the ability to edit the player's Dancer card outside of the game was removed. This is due to the shutdown announcement of the online servers for Just Dance 2015 on November 19, 2018. On an undisclosed date, a Just Dance TV feature was added and the option to log on to one's Ubisoft account was added for updated version of the program, as well as to enable the option again to edit the player's Dancer card outside the game. Both features were removed again on an undisclosed date. The option to use the app on Nintendo Switch and Wii U is eliminated. In the Just Dance 2020 version (Version 6.1.1) of the program, they added the new manual par option that allows players from other consoles to use the application to play. The option to use the app on Nintendo Switch is added again. The option to use the app in Google Stadia is also added. Since March 2020, many users have reported that when the app is opened, it disconnects, does not recognize the console and closes on its own, so far Ubisoft has said nothing about it. It was fixed in an update in May 2020. Nov 12, 2020 Version 7.0.2 Just Dance® 2021 comes out on November 12th, 2020! Turn up the volume and come together: it's time to dance with Just Dance® 2021! Play the game with the updated Just Dance® Controller app on your Nintendo Switch™, Nintendo Switch™ Lite, PlayStation®4, PlayStation®5, Xbox One, Xbox Series X, and Stadia™. I'm not exactly sure what's the root of all the problems or if they're all connected, but I bought Just Dance 2018 for ps4 and went using smartphones to play. To get it started, the first issues are in the app and the game itself, but I keep getting network errors, so I think they're issues with the Ubisoft servers or something. Can't import my Ubisoft account or whatever it is, it asks to customize your dancer card within the app and I can't access the online feature of the game itself. The second issues are the odd one out. The first two smartphone devices work well without many problems, but all other devices paired with game/console repeat the same problem of not appearing on the screen. They produce sound effects when they join the game and show character selection after picking a song like all other devices, but on the TV it won't show their name or any kind of visual clue to their existence, but when it dances up a third and again bar if they dance, but it won't show their names at the top or let them know how they do with each movement like the other two. And they also get a score at the end of the song and that's the only proof of their existence on the ps4 side. I'm hoping for some update somewhere to resolve this When I first got this game, the controls worked well, but the more I danced, it got worse. I'm disconnected even in the middle of songs that are annoying when I'm on the world floor. I can't get decent scores while using this program. Once I disconnected when I reconnected, and 10 seconds after I was disconnected again! The worst part is that I'm already spending $60 to buy the game, and getting the Kinect is another $100 with an adapter of $60. I can't afford the Kinect, so hopefully there's an update that fixes some of the bugs soon. It's also unfair to people who have a Kinect because it follows both arm moments (thus earning more points) while the phone controller detects just one arm. I've heard people complain about this before, so hopefully the Just Dance company will make it fair to everyone. I really hope this review is taken into account for the next update. Thank you. Dear Ubisoft and Just Dance developers, can't express how impressed I am with this information. The sleek, beautiful design and multiple features surely make it a winner. I only have a few suggestions: 1. Maybe regular Wii compatibility? I Am how old Wiis is, but perhaps a more simple Wi-Fi signal output would do the trick, considering most Wiis can connect to Wi-Fi.2. Perhaps the ability to change your avatar and name without logging in? I'm I 6th grader and apparently everything matters- @ hope you consider those suggestions for the program. However, I still have some suggestions for Just Dance itself. (It's completely random and might not even be possible?) 1. I know how many people love custom made things, so it will be cool if you can come up with a personal dance. First, you can choose one of the pre-made avatars from the other songs. Then you can make your own moves after the duration of the song. The avatar would reflect you, you can then save it, call it and play it with your friends!2. You can create a whole different app made specifically for iPad. (Not iPad Mini, just anything that measures greater than or equal to iPad screen. You can do the same with Samsung or other devices. Maybe even computers. Then, using the same controller app, prop up your iPad and just play Dance on there! (They will have to buy the various expenses mobby.) It's even a word ?! @ @ I hope you take it in serious consideration! Thanks a lot! The developer, Ubisoft, indicated that the app's privacy practices may include handling data as described below.
